

INCENDIARIES

Burn the Plant of the Federal Coal Company, in Pennsylvania.

MULES POISONED AT MINES.

The Terrible Condition of a California Bank President in Chicago.

A FATHER AND DAUGHTER DROWNED.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 25.—The plant of the Federal Coal Company, at Federal in this coal district, was destroyed by fire early this morning. In some other mines, the mules have been poisoned. None of the perpetrators have been captured, but suspicion points to the strikers who are being watched. If these actions are traced to the striking miners, it will make any agreement almost an impossibility and will hurt the cause of the strikers.

WEST CRAZY.

A San Francisco Bank President Creates a Panic.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Bank President Talbot, of San Francisco, went crazy last night on an incoming train and created a regular panic among the passengers. He threw away gold and tried to kill some of the occupants of the car. He is now a raving maniac and is confined in a padded cell.

IMPROVED BUSINESS.

Best in Years Enjoyed By the Railroads Around Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 21.—The railroads in this section are doing the biggest business for five years. Yesterday the Louisville & Nashville railroad moved thirty-three freight trains out of Birmingham, three of which were laden solidly with pig iron for shipment to Europe. Because of the great increase in traffic all the railroad shops here have been ordered to work ten hours daily, where they have been working but six. The demand for pig iron, especially for export purposes, is so good that two more furnaces are preparing to start, making sixteen in operation.

A SAIL DROWNING.

Father and Daughter Lost in a Mountain Stream.

New Roe, Ky., Aug. 25.—J. H. Hickerson and daughter, of this county, have been drowned in Clay county, where they were visiting.

STORM'S FATAL WORK.

One Man Killed and Another Injured in an Indiana Town.
Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 25.—During a storm last evening at Ellettsville a tree blew down on a slaughter house where Joseph Edwards and Charles Ambers were at work. Edwards was instantly killed and Ambers fatally injured.

DEMOE GOES HOME.

His Visit Thought to Have Considerable Political Significance.
Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 24.—Senator Demoe has returned to his home at Marion after a brief visit to Col. T. J. A. Candler here. It is said at the collector's office that the visit was purely of a social nature, but outsiders say political matters of importance were discussed.

AFTER DR. TURNER.

Hunterites in the Eighth Judicial District Want His Scalp.
Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 25.—A bitter fight is being waged by the Hunter faction in the Eighth Judicial district in the attempt to depose Dr. William Turner, district chairman of a Bradley Republican. Turner has published a denunciation of his enemies and proposes to fight them all along the line. The matter may be brought before the State Central committee.

39.66 CENTS

Was Yesterday's Value of the Silver in a Standard Dollar.

New York, Aug. 24.—At today's New York price for bars, the value of the silver dollars is 39.66 cents.

WHEAT IN MERCER COUNTY.

Barrenness Holding Their Crops Expecting Still Higher Prices.
Harrisburg, Ky., Aug. 24.—A special to the "Courier Journal" says: Inquiry among the wheat buyers today reveals the fact that Mercer county producers this season expect 300,000 bushels of wheat. Of this amount 300,000 bushels have been sold and shipped out at prices ranging from fifty-eight cents to $1.10, the latter figure being reached last Saturday, when 10,000 bushels were brought at that price. The farmers are keeping up with the market as well as the buyers, and a great many of them refused to sell yesterday at

FOSTER HELD.

The Evidence Showed That He Maliciously Cut Finis Dance.

WAS SENT BACK TO JAIL.

The Sentence Case Against R. H. Woolfolk Will Likely Be Dismissed.

OTHER CASES IN TODAY'S COURT.

Charlie Foster, alias "Dog," was tried this morning for maliciously cutting Finis Dance, alias Campbell, at Tom Emery's saloon on August 7. He was held to answer in the sum of $200 and in default of bond went to jail.

Dance was first called and said that Foster came into Tom Emery's saloon and said something. He told Foster to "go away," and Foster wouldn't do it. "Go away, you," I said and he cut me in the face. He cut me in the head and I grabbed a chair; he then cut me in the side. He cut me four times in all, once on the face, once in the head, once on the wrist and once in the side.

Dance claimed that the first two times he was cut while sitting down. The defense did not cross-examine him.

Tom Emery was called. He remembered Foster's entrance and remembered Dance calling him a name, but as the word is often used in ban by the men who frequent the place, nothing was thought of it until Dance rose up and they saw blood dropping from his jaw.

G. H. Ford, told substantially the same story, except that he saw Dance strike Foster twice with a chair after he was cut.

Foster, the defendant, claimed that he took a drink in the saloon and went back to the game. He claimed that Dance became enraged because he wanted to play somebody's hand, and that when Dance called him a name he asked him if he meant it. Dance raised up, seized the chair, and struck him on the head with it. The chair got hung over his head and he was in this way drawn to Dance and then cut him. Previous to this, Foster claimed, Dance had knocked two of his teeth out with the first chair, which was broken, and hit him with another chair.

Manned West was also in the game and saw Dance strike Foster twice with the chair.

Jim Porter was charged with striking Joseph Parker, but the evidence did not sustain the charge and the case was dismissed.

Henry Slaughter, the drayman who drew a knife on Oliver Cow, was fined $10 and costs.

The nuisance case against Mr. R. H. Woolfolk was left open, but Judge Sanders intimated that he would dismiss it tomorrow. The charge is obstructing natural drainage by filling up a lot.

J. H. Clark, Max Garrett and Oscar Phelps were fined for drunkenness.

SILVERITE AFTER GOLD.

Sometime Black is Neglecting His Canvass to Hunt the Yellow Metal.

A Hawesville special to the Courier-Journal under date of the 24th says: Garland D. Black, of this city, who is the silver nominee in Ohio county for the legislature, was in town Sunday with a pocket full of alleged gold nuggets and gold-bearing quartz. He has found a large hill within twenty miles of this place which he says is full of the precious metal. He says he can scrape it up in wagon loads, but is attempting to keep the matter quiet until he can leave it all. He owns part of the territory. Mr. Black is the wisest silver man in these parts.

HON. JOHN R. HINDMAN

Opens the Campaign for the National Democrats.

Hon. J. R. Hindman, National Democratic candidate for clerk of the court of appeals, was in Louisville yesterday, preliminary to the opening of his campaign, which he will inaugurate at Hickman today. He will be on the stump, with few interruptions, until the election.

Mr. Hindman says that the conditions for National Democracy were never more favorable. With a dollar wheat market to back up his statements, Mr. Hindman says that he will pull a big vote. Mr. Hindman is in good shape and ready for hard work. He is a strong, convincing speaker, witty, and reaches a crowd with little difficulty.

He speaks at Paducah Friday and at Mayfield Saturday.

WITH INTENT TO KILL.

Lively Scrap Near the Broadway Freight Depot.

S. F. Buchanan and Ben Boyd, Colored, Fight Over Their Teams.

S. F. Buchanan, who drives a delivery wagon for the Jake Biederman Grocery Company, went before Judge Sanders this afternoon at 2 o'clock and swore out a warrant against Ben Boyd, the colored dray driver, charging him with malicious assault with intent to kill.

Boyd was arrested by Officers Crow and Bond and carried to the city hall.

It appears that the two men were near the Illinois Central freight depot with their teams. Boyd wanted to get in to the depot to unload some goods, and Buchanan's wagon was in the way. A discussion arose, and hot words ensued. Boyd attempted to forcibly drive past, and Buchanan struck his mule on the head with a whip, according to Boyd, and then struck the latter as he passed.

Both then began fighting, and the contest lasted some time, and attracted quite a crowd. Buchanan was badly beaten up about the head and according to Boyd, called the latter a name that does not look well in print, which caused him to assault him again. Boyd received a few scratches.

Buchanan makes the charge that Boyd struck him with some hard, blunt instrument, but Boyd claims it was his fist. Buchanan had his wounds dressed by a doctor, and Boyd will probably give bond.

Boyd often figures in the police court, but his principal fault is fighting. His brother is now a fugitive, wanted for shooting Morton Johnson, colored, on the excursion to Cairo last Sunday.

BIG CROWD

Leaves Paducah at Noon For the Windy City.

Vice-President Wellings Passes Through From Louisville to Chicago.

Two coach loads of people left the Union depot at noon for Chicago on the excursion given by the Illinois Central. As the crowd was many of the best people of Paducah, and the crowd exceeded the most sanguine expectations of even the local agents. City Passenger Agent Donovan sold seventy tickets before noon, and many others were sold at the Union depot before the train left. The crowd was estimated at from 125 to 150.

At Carbondale the train will catch the Chicago fast mail, and the crowd will be augmented all along the line.

First Vice President J. C. Wellings, of the Illinois Central, and his son, Paul, arrived at noon from Louisville on a private car, en route to Chicago. The car was attached to the excursion train and carried over on the transfer boat.

Yardmaster Nelson has about recovered from his recent illness, and resumed work today.

Route Agent Robertson, of the American, came over from Illinois this morning and went up to Princeton on the I. C.

Traveling Freight Agent Griffin, of the L. & N., is in the city today.

WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

Judge W. D. Greer, on his recent trip to Iowa, reached Sioux City about 9 o'clock in the evening, weary and worn out. He knew nothing about the place, or the hotel accommodations, and after some hesitation accepted a well-dressed gentleman and inquired: "Can you refer me to a first-class hotel?"

"No, sir," was the reply, "but this gentleman has volunteered to take me to one, and you are welcome to go with us."

"What is the name of the hotel?" asked the judge.

"The Oxford," replied the chaplaine.

"I thought that smacks of English, that name does," thought the judge. "I guess it must be something very swell."

They were driven several blocks, and the carriage finally drew up in front of a plain structure that was not very alluring in general appearance.

"How far is the hotel from here?" interrogated the Paducah man, who was growing impatient.

"This is it," laconically replied the driver, and, despite its inhospitable appearance and surroundings—it was getting late—the judge overcame his scruples and went in.

"I want one of the best rooms in the house," he said to the landlord, "not very high and not the outside."

The landlord scanned his room list and believed that he could give it to him. Taking a key from a pigeon-hole, he led the way. When the door of the room was opened and the musty odor had about all escaped, the judge took a look at the bed and firmly informed the landlord that he could never slumber in a room like that.

The landlord stroked his bald pate and suddenly remembered that he had a vacant double room down stairs, and tendered the Kentucky Colonel this one. Thence they proceeded, and the room proved to be a little better than the other one.

The judge eagerly retired, wearing on his coat a small badge of honor, the order of a crown's costume. He soon dozed off, and presently heard, as he thought, a burglar trying to get in the door. First he tumbled with the keyhole. The noise ceased and the judge dozed again, when he was rudely awakened by a blow in the face. He decided, of course, that he had been murdered by a burglar.

Out he bounced, into the middle of the floor, frantically searching: "Lanark! Lanark! help!" His blouse robe he had as he descended on the floor, filled up like a hot air balloon. The "flapper" guest from the Kentucky stopped down to look under the bed for the supposed burglar, and at this juncture a rat about the size of a dog scampered past him. He ceased his supplications for help and bounced back in bed, after knocking the door to the startled landlord.

"Landlord, there's a rat in here," he meekly exclaimed, smiling at the thought of what a commotion he had created in the hostelry over a mere rat.

"A rat?" incredulously repeated the bewildered landlord. "Why, your door is there surely is no such animal here! There never was a rat in this room before!"

"Yes, a rat!" reiterated the judge, "and a live one. He climbed up the bed post and jumped right smack down into my face."

The landlord glanced at the judge rather curiously, as if, remembering that he came from Kentucky, he thought perhaps the colonel had the "jimmies."

"A rat?" he said half aloud, and then, another look back at the judge, as it doubt as to his sanity. Fortunately the rat showed himself at his proper home, and disappeared under the bed.

"You'll have to go him out," I can't sleep a wink with a live Iowa rat," declared the judge from his bed, and procuring an umbrella the accommodating landlord set about dispatching the rodent. He would punch around under the bureau, under one of the beds, he would rake around under the bed and Mr. Rat would dodge under the bureau, and after the performance had been repeated a time or two the judge could hardly suppress his mirth, even by examining the bed cover into his mouth.

The landlord finally announced that the rat was out, but the judge said it was no such thing, because he had been watching the door. He then demanded a better room, and the landlord, after scratching his ears, again, and he guessed he could give it to him.

"Oh, you have no count on it," she exclaimed in astonishment.

"No, madam, and I wouldn't have any pants on, either, if I had my way about it this hot weather," he retorted in his gruff, good-natured way.

She overlooked it, though, for as she explained, every one knows he doesn't mean everything he says.

Yesterday afternoon two farmers with a load of hay started to turn at Broadway and South Fifth streets. They found a rope stretched across to prevent vehicles from passing over the newly rolled street, and reining up their horses remained there about an hour, presumably waiting for the street to dry. Two motorcars were off duty took in the situation and began an argument.

"You've come from Marshall county?" observed the motorcar from Haystack Gap.

"Why?" asked the motorcar from Marshall.

"Cause they don't know there's any other street to go on 'test town,'" explained the other.

"Humph!" retorted the other, "but he ain't from your neighborhood?"

"Why?"

"Cause he wouldn't a knowed the way to town even."

"He ain't no kin to you."

"Why?"

"He'd be down eatin' that hay if he was."

Just then the farmers turned, and it was seen by their faces that they came from Illinois. Somewhat they showed them the way off Broadway.

A few days ago Capt. V. A. McClure, the well-known war veteran, and Mr. G. B. Jones, a young conductor on the I. C. W. & A. La Belle, as the town's the town, sking the lake, the conductor challenged this aged soldier for a wrestling match, and to his surprise was promptly taken up. There was no way to "drawish."

The Captain lost one of his eyes during the war, and the prospects of such a one-sided wrestling contest greatly amused the friends of the club. Two referees gentlemen, who had no idea they intended to carry out the agreement.

Capt. V. A. McClure, Mr. McClure's son-in-law, intended to have the contest postponed until the next Sunday as a joke on the two gentlemen. The referees, however, had really in earnest, and had selected McClure's room as the place for the match. McClure forgot about the newspaper announcement made on the 10th, and now he is glad he did not, for the joke would have been on him.

When he went to the gym club, McClure, a few days ago, he found to his surprise that the contest was on. He was a little late, and the youthful disk pondered on the late in halting his splintering and splashing around the two little boys, in their anxious efforts to outwrestle each other. It is said that Capt. McClure was not second in the contest, either, and that he is willing to swim against anything but a mermaid.

Coroner Erv Johnson, of Mayfield, is mourning the loss of his only child. He had a car to the Mayfield public as follows, and it fully explains the case:

"While holding the inquest yesterday morning someone took my coat, which was hanging on a door knob, I hope the one who has it will return same at once. These nights are chilly and I will need it."

If the thief can resist that plea, he is hard hearted indeed.

COLORED DEPARTMENT.

Mrs. Jennie Logan is on the sick list.

Ben B. Batton is ill at his home on Clay street.

Miss Mollie Carmon left yesterday for her home in Mayfield.

Mr. H. B. Davis and daughter, Miss Bessie, left yesterday for Nashville.

Mayetta, infant daughter of W. C. and Louisa M. Edwards died at 9:15 yesterday morning.

Miss Susan White will return to Chicago today, after a three weeks' visit to relatives here.

Mrs. John Morton and Misses Minnie Clifton and May Leigh returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit to Mrs. W. B. Arrington in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edwards lost their youngest child yesterday. The funeral will take place at their residence on North Tenth street at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Jennie Lester, of Memphis, returned home yesterday, after having spent several weeks visiting Miss Anna Pullen, No. 628 South Fifth street.

The Institute was moved to the Garfield building, on account of some repairs being made on the Lincoln building. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Rev. M. Currie, of Brownsville, Tenn., a very circumstantial minister of the gospel, will preach at the Franklin Street Christian church this evening at 8 o'clock. All the members and friends are requested to be present.

Mr. David Lay is very sick. He is about a hundred years old. He is an old citizen, and is well known and respected. He saved the Lay and Enders families in his early days, when Paducah was but a small village.

Program.

The Institute will render the following program Thursday evening, August 26th at Seventh Street Baptist church at 8 p. m.:

Song by institute.
Prayer by Rev. Toomy.
Song by choir.
Recitation by Miss A. E. Howell.
Song by institute.
Lecture, Education and the Common Schools, by Prof. E. W. Benton.
Solo by W. M. Powell.
Select reading by Miss A. B. Morris.

Recitation by J. F. Williams.

Music by church.

Debate: Resolved that nothing but the right should ever be presented to the child. Affirmative, T. D. Hibbs, W. C. Edwards; negative, W. M. Shaw, R. C. McClure.

Song by choir.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 24, 1897.

Editor Box: Our people are still agog over the horrible and outrageous murder of Mrs. Estelle Tait, who was shot by her husband, William Tait. His examining trial is set for Wednesday.

Last Sunday, the fourth and last quarterly conference for this conference year, was held at the A. M. E. church, this city. The meeting was a success from beginning to end. Presiding Elder Rev. L. B. Sims called the conference together Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The various reports were all ready and the conference was through its work in just fifty-five minutes, and every cent due the P. E. from our church was paid. The following resolution was adopted by the Quarterly Conference and endorsed by the church and Sunday school.

Resolved, That we tender Rev. L. B. Sims our heartfelt thanks for the many and cheerful manner that he has conducted our Quarterly Conferences for the year just ending, and where ever he may go we pledge our prayers for his success.

And Further, That the P. E. be requested to use his influence to have Rev. S. L. Howard returned to us as pastor.

Respectfully,
A. Q. GREENE

The grand reception held last night in honor of Miss Mabel Harrison was quite a swell affair, and the guests were highly entertained. Those present were:

Misses Annie Talley, Mamie Young, Hattie Adams, Caroline Tandy, Mattie Sills, Birdie Clarke, Myrtle Skelton, Minnie Williams, Jennie Harvey, Lurena Marable, Ada Clarke, Fannie Williams, Mabel Branson, Mabel Barrett, Leather Myers, Rachel Sills, Pearl Branson, Willie McDermott, Bessie Gibbs, Clara Chubb, Jennie Adams, Ora Chubb, Ollie Martin, Ophelia Adams, Bessie Williams, Pearl Gibbs, Masters, L. J. Overby, Dow Minkeson, Willie Cook, Edmond Street, George Ross, Frank Hall, George Harvey, Jr., Johnnie Mitchell, James T. Over, Tommie Overby, Johnnie Woolfo, Wm. H. Adams, Jessie Finley, Celest Morton, Clarence Tice, Tommie Morton, Charlie Wilson, Charlie Street, Sheehan, Roscoe Chubb, John Leech, Pless Adams, Robt. Tice, Mrs. Susan White, of Chicago, Ill., Mr. John W. Sanders, of New York.

Music was rendered by Prof. Chambers brass band, Walters, Meslames Overby, Harvey, Mitchell, Branson, Turner and Miss Nora Adams.

Col. Josiah Patterson, ex-Commandant of the Memphis district, was given Chairman Carroll, of the National Democratic State Campaign committee, that he will make eleven speeches in Kentucky, beginning October 4.

Numerous propositions looking to a settlement of the coal miners' strike were considered at a conference of miners' officials and operators Monday night, but no agreement was reached. The conference was adjourned till this morning, when further efforts to come to an understanding will be made.

SPLENDID PLANT.

The Flouring Mill and Storage Elevator of the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company.

It is the Old Three Rivers Mill. Completely Overhauled and Brought Strictly Up to Date—Can Turn Out the Very Finest of Flour.

The old Three Rivers mill is again the scene of life and activity after a period of illness of fourteen months. The damage done to the recent tornado, that tore off a roof and pushed down a few walls, just to show what it could do, has been entirely repaired. On Monday morning the machinery was started and the manufacture of flour begun in real earnest.

The mill is operated by Messrs. Puryear and Coker, who propose to run a modern mill and to make flour that will match any made in quality and appearance. The name of the firm is the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company.

The mill has been thoroughly overhauled by Todd & Stanley, mill furnishers, of St. Louis, one of the most reliable firms of this kind in the country. The millwright here in charge of the work, and representing Todd & Stanley, is Mr. William Thayer, of St. Louis, who has proved himself to be a thorough mechanic in every respect.

The expert miller of the above St. Louis firm is Mr. E. E. Hunter, and he is now here on the ground, adjusting the machinery and superintending the starting of the mill. The results obtained in the first two days that the mill has been running far exceed the expectations of all concerned, and the machinery is running as smoothly as can be desired.

Mr. Hunter made the sale of machinery to the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company and secured the contract for the repairing. He has been a practical miller since 1874, serving his time at Cairo.

All the machinery throughout the entire mill has been modernized and bought strictly up to date in every respect. All rolls have been equipped with new automatic roll feeders, which all millers know are essential to good milling. A new flour packer has been added, and new silk bolting cloth has been placed throughout the entire mill. The smooth rolls have all been reground and the corrugated rolls have been ground and recorrugated. In fact, everything throughout the mill has been handled in the most modern manner, so that the mill is as modern and as up to date as if it had come fresh from the hands of the manufacturers.

In addition to the flouring mill there is a corn meal plant on the roller process, equipped thoroughly with all necessary machinery for turning out a high grade of meal. The daily capacity of these two mill plants is four hundred barrels.

Besides the corn meal and flouring mill plants, there is a storage elevator for storing grain of all kinds which also has been completely overhauled and is now in perfect running order. The capacity of the elevator is 60,000 bushels. The mill is also equipped with a sack carrier for loading and unloading the river steamer.

The new track which the I. C. railroad is now constructing along the river front will run along First street after it crosses Jefferson, and will pass immediately in front of the whole mill property, which fronts on First street 173 feet, and will put in a switch especially for the mill's use. This will give the company the very finest of facilities for receiving grain and for handling its output.

The company also has on the opposite side of First street a cooperative plan, where all the barrels used in packing flour are made. This plant works about eight hours a day and is now turning out nearly one hundred barrels daily.

The power of the mill is furnished by a 200-horse power engine which is now largely in excess of the demands but will enable the mill to enlarge its output greatly at any time with no additional power plant.

The mill is arranged to make any grade of flour that the market demands. Three grades are now being turned out, patent, bakers and choice; the brands used by the mill are Pride of the Purchase, their highest grade patent, Success, patent; Snow Drift, bakers, and Daisy, which is a choice family flour; also a straight combined grade can be made and will be if the trade demands it. The best grade of flour that is now being turned out is as fine as any flour that is put on the market. The only difference between this mill and the mills of the famous flour manufacturers, is the size. None can be more modern or do nicer work. The mill is not being run to its full capacity just now, but it will be in a few days. Paducah is not only a good grain market, but it is an unassisted distributing point, and there is no reason why the output of this mill cannot be easily sold. It is the purpose of the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company to increase the output very largely within the next year, at least doubling or trebling its present capacity. Ample grain comes here to market, or would come here, to supply a 1000-barrel mill.

The superintendent of the mill is Mr. W. A. Coker, who, in connection with Mr. T. H. Puryear, compose the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company. Mr. Coker is well known in this city, having resided here for over a year. He came from Meigsboro, Ill., and has been in the milling business since 1874.

The head miller is Mr. Wm. Oehlenschlaeger, a most expert miller, and

As has been frequently stated in the St. Louis, Paducah is destined to be a prosperous manufacturing city. She is now famous for her wholesale trade, which has given the Plain City the proud distinction of being the largest wholesale city of its size in the United States. The advantages of a most fortunate location, backed by most favorable freight rates, have been utilized by our bustling merchants, until the drummers that travel from this city take in a dozen sales in their regular trips and meet in successful competition the representatives of Louisville, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Memphis.

The success of our wholesale trade shows what can be done in the manufacturing line. Already several large plants are here and have become an important factor in the city's business and by their success have demonstrated what can be done. We do not look for Paducah to be a second Minneapolis, but we do believe that this city is an elegant location for a flouring mill of large capacity. The enterprise displayed by the Paducah Milling and Elevator Company, with the splendid facilities that they now have for the manufacture of flour gives ample assurance that their undertaking will be a complete success and that they will be an important factor in making Paducah the manufacturing city she is destined to be.

The Paducah Milling and Elevator Co. has been paying the highest price for wheat, and in fact Paducah has been the best wheat market as far as prices are concerned in the state. Many thousands of bushels have been sold here at $1.00.

A DRUNKEN FARMER

Demolished Marshall Collins' Buggy Out in the Country.

Last evening Mrs. Collins, wife of Marshall James Collins, and little daughter, were driving towards the city from Mr. Sam Baker's, in the country, where Mrs. Collins had gone to see Mr. Baker, who is ill.

Near Pepper's Mill, five miles from town, a drunken farmer who had been to the city and sold his wheat ran into Mrs. Collins' vehicle and completely demolished it, turning it over and throwing the occupants out.

Mrs. Collins had turned out until her buggy was almost in the ditch. The former looked back and said, when he saw the wreck:

"Ish all yer fault, you ought got out er the way. Everything goes anyhow. What's a dollar a bushel?"

He drove on and some of the neighbors kindly loaned Mrs. Collins a rig in which to come home.

The only complaint she made to the marshal was that some jars of fruit she was bringing to the city were broken. Neither she nor the little girl was injured.
